A magazine has invited readers to send in articles with the title 'My Ideal Home'. You decide to write an article in which you describe the structure and furnishings of your ideal home. You should discuss how this choice reflects your personality and consider what we can learn about people from the type of home they live in and the way they furnish it.

Write your article.

How would it be my ideal home.

If I had to structure and furnish my ideal home it would be something similar where I live nowadays. Before moving to it, we used to live in a small apartment near a park that get smaller as soon as my sons born. As a result, there wasn’t enough room to swing a cat in. Therefore we bought a new detached house in the Sant Narcis area, which had been my idealistic place to settle in Girona.

Not only is my home big enough for a four-members-family but also allows all of us to have one room for our needs. Moreover, every son has his own bedroom, big enough, may I say. But what I love the most is that I have a study for myself where I spend long hours without being disturbed and when I’m looking for a relaxed moment. Furthermore, we have a pretty small patio that we use from the springtime to autumn and where we gather with our family and friends and we prepare barbecues. Little did I know how useful would that garden be during the lockdown when we bought the house. On that stressful situation, we spent long hours there which allow us to keep our spirits up.

Related to furnishing, I have to admit that there is a sheer difference in the decoration between the studio and the rest of the house. While it might be described as a zen style for the house, the studio is much more furnished, with small room to add new things because as being my sanctuary, I have gathered there all my important things, from bits and buds I bought in different travels to my library, creating a relaxing atmosphere that I love so much and makes that room my favourite one.
